New Brunswick, NJ — January 27, 2022 — nathaniel philip introduces the world’s first ‘Music Video, Video Game’ Available to Play and/or Watch on the nathaniel philip Website

A companion piece to the debut nathaniel philip album, the “I’ll Die Before the Rest of me Changes - Desktop Emulator” is the world’s first music video, video game, in that, the “hello, Molly” and “Correctivism” music videos, are not only watchable- but interactive. Housed inside the larger Windows 95-esque computer desktop, the “IDBTROMC - Desktop Emulator” allows players to exist within the same homescreen as much of the album takes place. Discover disconcertingly relevant pop-up ads, home video, amateur DJ software, and even an mp3 player with the album on it.

“IDBTROMC is a soundscape amalgamate made up just as much of traditional rock and pop instrumentation, as it is circuit-bent instruments and chopped-up samples of AI-Generated music. Opening on the main character’s birth, January 27th, 2022, the album follows him as he grows up navigating familial conflict, nostalgia addiction, and the ever-changing, surreal and isolating world that is the internet.”
